Overview

The Recreation, Parks and Wildlife (RPW) Foundation is an autonomous agency created by provincial legislation in 1976. The Foundation provides individuals and organizations the opportunity to make donations to be used for recreation, parks or wildlife projects in Alberta, or to apply for funding for such products.

Thus the Foundation is both a giver and taker, accepting donations, and in turn allocating grants. The Foundation's stated objective is to provide to persons and organizations the opportunity to donate real or personal property to be used for:

i) the development or maintenance of recreational programs, services and to a lesser extent, facilities;
ii) the development or maintenance of parks; or
iii) the management, conservation or preservation of fish and wildlife.

Similarly, the foundation has the power to make grants to any individual or organization for projects falling within these objectives.

As an agent of the Crown in the right of Alberta, most donations, bequests and gifts made to the Foundation qualify for the maximum benefit under the Federal Income Tax Act. In addition, since 1979 the Foundation has been a recipient of a portion of the revenue generated by Alberta Lotteries. Thus, the RPW Foundation is a catalyst, transforming donations and revenue into worthwhile projects which benefit the people of Alberta in a number of ways.

Board of Directors

The Board of Directors consists of not more than 12 members appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council for a period of three years. Each member, although employed in a career not usually connected with the Foundation's work, is nominated on the basis of their extensive volunteer time, knowledge and experience with community-based recreation, parks or wildlife programs. It is this experience they draw upon when reviewing each application submitted to the Foundation, and when making an informed decision as to the amount of funding to be provided to various projects. As of March 31, 1989 the following persons were members of the Foundation's Board of Directors:

Foundation Activities

To meet its stated objectives during the 1988-89 fiscal year, the Foundation provided grant assistance through five main programs, and continued to work to identify and develop new initiatives.

The first program, known as the Quarterly Grant Program, was extremely successful and provided the basis for many Foundation activities. The second area of funding was the Annual Assocation Enrichment Program. Foundation assistance was also provided through three new initiatives: Youth in Action, the Park Ventures Fund, and the Leisure Lifestyle Division.

Quarterly Grant Program

The Foundation accepts applications for grants four times per year from individuals, groups, municipalities and organizations. Projects must be related to the areas of recreation, parks or wildlife.

As a result of the 1988-89 call for applications, the Foundation received and reviewed 576 requests for support, totalling $11.5 million. Funding was awarded to 365 of these projects in the amount of $2,584,310.

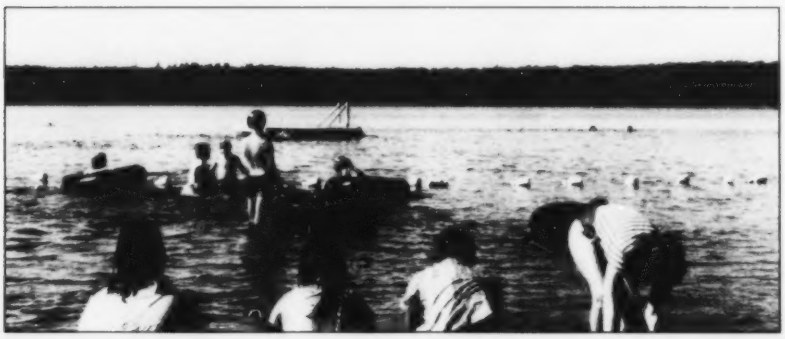
Highlighted below are examples which depict the Foundation's ability to assist a wide range of projects beneficial to a variety of Albertans. For a complete listing of all quarterly grant applications, see the Appendix on page 8.

Summer Camp

Grants of $5,000 were awarded to the Bissell Centre of Edmonton (United Church of Canada) and Christian Camping International (CCI).

The Bissell Centre received assistance for its Moonlight Bay Camp at Lake Wabamun. This camp provides a fresh air experience to families, children, teens and groups of people who would not ordinarily have the opportunity to enjoy the great outdoors. In operation for more than 50 years, the camp was in need of major renovations and development. It did not meet some of the current standards for camps, and faced a possible shut-down unless major improvements were made. The grant provided by the RPW Foundation assisted with the upgrading of existing facilities, and the establishment of a master development plan for future programs, services and facilities as funds become available.

The Foundation's grant to Christian Camping International (CCI) was to help with the development of a Junior Leadership Training Program designed to improve organized Christian camping in Alberta. The program consisted of four levels of training for high school-aged youth to help them develop skills required for organized camping, and leadership qualities that would be of benefit throughout their lives. The program was designed to help meet the need for responsible, skilled leaders in all types of organized camping programs in Alberta, and to prepare young people for leadership roles in a variety of community activities. Although the program related to Christian camps, there was a wide range of participants including individuals from churched and non-churched backgrounds, and urban and rural settings. In addition, many of the camps represented by the CCI were inter-denominational.



Recreational Construction Projects

The Foundation grants $10,000 to the town of Bodo for renovations to the community hall. Built in 1981 adjoining the school, the hall was designed to be a joint-use facility accommodating up to 175 people. However, the needs of the community have outgrown the hall. The Foundation's grant will assist with the removal of a cement wall between the community hall and the school gymnasium. When the renovations are complete, the facility will be able to accommodate up to 400 people, greatly increasing the scope of recreational activity for the town.

Another construction project funded is found in Drumheller. The Foundation provided $15,000 to assist with the transformation of a former water treatment plant into a community recreation facility. The building will be upgraded to provide suitable accommodation for a teen centre, farmers' market, performance centre, storage facility for minor hockey and site for recreational classes and activities. The new multi-purpose facility will be invaluable to the people of Drumheller and surrounding area.

Granum Park

The Town of Granum was granted $10,000 by the Foundation to assist with the development of a park and recreation area. Devestated by fire in recent years, the town is rising from the ashes and rebuilding. Part of the plan involves transforming 40 acres of land into a park, and relocating all cultural and recreational facilities to this site. Development will include an 18-hole golf course, hiking and jogging trails with a fitness station, a 2.8 acre lake, a fully serviced campground, and a semi-enclosed Elizabethan amphi-theatre. This unique development will serve a variety of recreational and cultural needs in the community of Granum and surrounding area.

Senior Citizens Drop-in Centre

The Morinville Senior Citizens Rendez-Vous Club received $15,000 from the Foundation to assist with the building of a new facility to accommodate the recreational needs of a growing number of "over 55's" in the area. The new facility will not only serve the club members, but will also be available to other segments of the community. It will include a games room, craft room, library, and multi-purpose room which will be available to outside organizations for receptions, meetings, and cultural and recreational activities for a nominal fee.

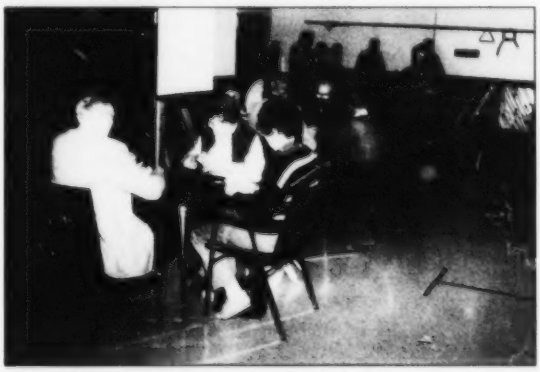
Recreational Equipment for the Handicapped

The Edmonton Association for the Mentally Handicapped (EAMH) received $5,000 to assist with the purchase of camping and outdoor recreational equipment. The basic objective of the EAMH is to encourage people with mental handicaps to participate in all types of life experiences. The association plans to increase recreational opportunities for the mentally handicapped by developing programming specially suited to their needs. It is hoped these programs will help teach participants new indoor and outdoor activity skills, and at the same time enhance their fitness level. In addition, by using a variety of recreational equipment, it is hoped participants will develop fine and gross motor skills. The RPW Foundation's grant assisted in providing outdoor recreational opportunities to persons with mental handicaps, and was in keeping with its mandate to contribute to quality lifestyles for all Albertans.

Outdoor Classroom

The Foundation provided a grant of $7,500 to assist with the construction and landscaping of an outdoor classroom for Ormsby School in Edmonton. The school places strong emphasis on environmental and outdoor education, and strives to develop responsible attitudes in students by integrating environmental themes into a variety of study areas.

In order to expand their environmental program, the school decided to build within its grounds an outdoor classroom. This would be an area where classes could go to perform environment-related studies, or enjoy the outdoors while core subjects are being taught. The school aims to foster an appreciation for the environment, and encourage a respect for the delicate balance between humans and other forms of life. It is hoped the responsible attitudes students develop at Ormsby School will last a lifetime, and be passed on to future generations of Albertans.



Study on Non-Comsumptive Wildlife Programs

The Foundation granted $6,300 to help underwrite the costs of a study to investigate private sector support of projects which encourage non-consumptive wildlife recreation and non-game management in Alberta. Non-consumptive wildlife recreation includes such activities such as bird-watching, wildlife photography and observation, nature study and birdfeeding. Increasingly government agencies responsible for the care of wildlife are finding it difficult to support proper management programs for non-consumptive wildlife and non-game uses. This study will investigate the potential for private sector support.

The study will be conducted by Glen Hvenegaard who holds a Master of Science degree in wildlife recreation. He will review present funding mechanisms for programs in Canada and the United States, and will assess the feasability of implementing such mechanisms in Alberta. He will also assess the attitudes and potential financial response of Albertans toward possible avenues of public funding. The information obtained from this study will be far reaching to all government departments and agencies involved in wildlife management, and will contribute toward the preservation of wildlife for the enjoyment of future Albertans.

DNA Profiling to Combat Poaching

The Foundation granted $15,000 to assist with a study on DNA analysis which would help combat the poaching of big game in Alberta. Poaching has become a serious problem in Alberta and worldwide. As poachers become more sophisticated in their illicit trade, it is essential that conservation agencies become more sophisticated in their detection and apprehending techniques.

Among the problems currently faced by Alberta Fish and Wildlife officers in their efforts to obtain convictions against poachers is that it is necessary to prove that two or more pieces of animal flesh found in a suspect's possession are from the same carcass. Secondly, there must be a positive association between the suspect and the poached animal.

Ongoing scientific research has indicated that deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) analysis could be used to identify wildlife species. The substance DNA is found in all living cells, and DNA analysis has great potential as both a forensic tool and a deterrent to would-be poachers. Bob McClymont, a laboratory scientist with Alberta Fish and Wildlife has embarked upon a study of the technique and methodology for DNA analysis. The aim of the project is to generate a suitable data base for big game genetics for enforcement purposes. It would also provide information that would be of benefit to game manager. The Foundation's support of this research will contribute toward the management and conservation of wildlife for the continued enjoyment of all Albertans.

Community '88

The Foundation granted $2,600 to offset the costs of producing the Community '88 conference in Fort McMurray. The conference, which took place in November, was organized by the Recreation Board of the City of Fort McMurray, and was directed to board members and volunteers from various non-profit organizations. The purpose was to encourage these volunteers to develop skills and knowledge required to operate their respective organizations most efficiently. A second objective was to examine the issues of image and success, and how non-profit organizations could effectively interpret their existing image and the message that image is giving to the community about their organization.

Forty delegates from a broad cross-section of community groups attended this conference. They gained invaluable information on how to strengthen their organizations, improve their efficiency, and work more effectively in the community.

Strathcona Conserv*Action Program

The Foundation provided a grant of $15,000 to the County of Strathcona for Conserv*Action, a program designed to be a long-term commitment to wildlife habitat management in the area. The program aims to increase habitat in the rural portion of the county, conserve soil and water through proper habitat management, and increase land-owners' awareness of their environment by hands-on involvment in special projects.

Planned activities include placement of fallen trees in sloughs to serve as resting areas for wild fowl, seeding of shorelines to improve waterfowl habitat, tree and shelterbelt planting, and nest box construction and placement. In addition to wildlife conservation, the program will also provide Albertans with employment and valuable work experience in natural resource management.

Wildlife Visuals

In 1988-89 the RPW Foundation granted $60,000, to be extended over three years in equal installments, to nature photographer Edgar T. Jones for the transfer of ownership of over 10,000 wildlife slides to the Provincial Museum.

The collection is one of the best and largest of its kind in western Canada. Spanning over 40 years, it includes a variety of subjects such as birds, mammals, habitats, flowers, landscapes and related natural history topics. It covers subjects primarily from Alberta, the Rocky Mountains, Saskatchewan and the Northwest Territories. The slide collection provides extensive visual documentation of the changes that have occurred in Alberta in the areas of environmental degradation and disturbance, both human and natural in origin.

The collection is of great educational significance to Albertans. It will provide an excellent resource base for a variety of recreational and environmental programs and publications. The slides will also greatly enhance the interpretive programs in Alberta's parks and outdoor nature centres. The Foundation's support helped to ensure this outstanding collection would remain in the province and be accessable to all Albertans.

Annual Association Enrichment Program

The Association Enrichment Program is available only on an annual basis to provincially recognized recreation and service associations. In 1988-89, 35 provincially recognized associations were registered under this funding program.

The purpose of the program is not to duplicate the funding associations receive to provide basic service, but rather to enrich the associations by supporting new initiatives. By funding innovative new programs, the Foundation aim to help associations strengthen and grow to offer better, more varied recreationsl opportunities to Albertans.

Youth in Action

The RPW Foundation recognizes that the youth of today are the recreation leaders, park naturalists and wildlife conservationists of tomorrow. The awareness and skills individuals gain at an early age will enhance their abilities for future involvement in the province"s recreation, parks and wildlife projects. With this in mind, the Foundation created Youth in Action, a special funding program specifically designed for young Albertans.

To be able to provide assistance to the wide variety of young people involved in recreation, parks and wildlife projects, Youth in Action has been divided into three distinct funding classes: Project Do, Youth in Motion, and Make Contact.

Project Do is run in conjunction with the Foundation's Quarterly Grant Program. It allows young people to exercise their creativity, and provides assistance for unique and innovative projects which have been developed for youth, by youth, or involve youth in their planning and execution.

Youth in Motion is a travel subsidy available to youth groups who wish to travel within Alberta to a recreation, parks or wildlife opportunity. Depending upon the size of the group and the distance to be travelled, this subsidy can provide up to $300 per group.

Make Contact was created not as a granting program, but as an effort to provide young Albertans with the best possible leadership development opportunities. Through either a single annual conference or as a series of smaller regional programs, Make Contact provides a variety of high quality leadership development models for the youth of this province.

Park Ventures Fund

There is growing sensitivity to the need for special places where the natural environment can be protected and enjoyed as a legacy for future generations. To help Albertans become directly involved in the preservation of the province's natural heritage and the provision of outdoor recreational opportunities, the RPW Foundation established the Park Ventures Fund.

The Park Ventures Fund provides Albertans the opportunity to make donations towards the acquisition and preservation of heritage and recreation properties. Through these private and corporate donations, more lands are set aside to expand recreational and conservation opportunities in Alberta's parkland; improve interpretive and educational services and support promotional and informational activities. The first bequest of lands and monies by Ms. Imrie to the people of Alberta, through the Park Ventures Fund, amounts to almost $1 million. The excitement generated by this first donation has resulted in contribution of volunteer time and services by Alberta business; Jappsen Architects Ltd., SMED Interiors Inc. and Con-Force Structures Ltd. Partnerships with municipalities are emerging for the long term management of properties.

In its inaugural year, the Park Ventures Fund with contributions from Alberta Lotteries was able to assist the Dinosaur Natural History Association in producing an audio cassette tape for use on self-guided tours through Dinosaur Provincial Park near Drumheller. In addition, the fund assisted with the production of a souvenir video.

Another project saw the Fish Creek Society receive funds to produce an interpretive guide book for the trails of Fish Creek Provincial Park.

A complete listing of Park Ventures Fund projects can be found within the quarterly grant applications listed in the Appendix on page 13.

Leisure Lifestyle Division

The Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation has long recognized the potential of using recreation as a vehicle for health promotion. Over the years, the Foundation has supported many lifestyle-related projects across the province. In January of 1988 the Foundation established a special Leisure Lifestyle Division, in cooperation with Alberta Recreation and Parks, with a mandate to encourage Albertans to lead healthier, more active lifestyles.

The Leisure Lifestyle Division actively seeks new partnerships with other support agencies, in both the private and public sectors. The division works to improve programs and services which enhance the quality of life in Alberta. The main objectives are:

i) to provide Albertans with the awareness and skills to make positive lifestyle choices;
ii) to use environments such as the workplace, family, community, educational institutions, parks and open spaces to promote positive lifestyle choices to Albertans; and
iii) to provide Albertans an opportunity to participate in special projects leading to positive lifestyle choices.

To achieve these objectives, the Leisure Lifestyle Division functions both proactively and reactively. In 1988-89, the division initiated several programs, and supported many others which were developed by outside interest. There were three main areas of focus: Promotion, the Alberta Centre for Well-Being, and Special Projects.

The division's promotional efforts were supported mainly by lottery funds. To determine how best to reach Albertans, a major market study was commissioned. Subsequently, two companies were chosen to develop two different aspects of the promotional campaign: Alberta Come Alive and The Alberta Challenge.

The Alberta Come Alive television campaign will promote the concept of individual responsibility and opportunities available for healthy, active lifestyles. The Alberta Challenge radio and print campaign will be based on the concept of competition, and will focus on encouraging Albertans to experience healthy activities in the spirit of competition.

The Alberta Centre for Well-Being was developed to promote the concept and benefits of good physical and emotional health to Albertans. In 1988-89, the Centre initiated educational opportunities such as conferences and workshops for professionals working in the areas of wellness. The centre also continued to develop an ongoing network for leisure and wellness professionals in the province.

In the area of Special Projects, the Leisure Lifestyle Division responded to a variety of needs, both by initiating projects and supporting others.
